Clint superintendent says district has experienced high tax rate before Passage of bond will raise taxes by about six cents, Perez contends

By Debra Dominguez
Special to the Courier

EAST EL PASO COUNTY — Under a new financial consultant, Clint Independent School District officials recently decided to refinance three of its schools if voters approve its $67 million bond and maintenance tax election Oct. 6. The district's Board of Trustees also unanimously voted Aug. 29 in favor of a $1.71 tax rate for the 2001-02 school year.

"What this means is that voters will be paying $1.71 for every $100 in property valuation," Clint ISD Superintendent Sylvester Perez said. "In the past, various area school districts have had similar rates, and this is not the first time in the history of Clint ISD that our tax rate has floated in that area. In 1990, our tax rate was at about $1.70.

"With our rapid growth and inevitable increases in utilities, health insurance and construction costs — we had to go this route," Perez said. "Being in a property poor school district is very challenging. With the new tax rate, we are going to be able to free up maintenance and operation monies without having to tap into our reserve fund."

Perez also said that by refinancing the three schools under the proposed bond issue and by setting a new tax rate, the school district would be able to generate more in state funding because the state provides the school district with $5 for every $1 it generates from local taxes.

"If the bond passes, there will be an increase of six cents for the 2002-2003 school year," Perez said. "The cost of the average home in the Clint Independent School District is currently $47,314. The tax impact for the average home for the 2001-2002 school year will be $46.02 monthly and $554.12 annually. For the 2002-2003 school year, the tax impact will be an increase of $1.48 monthly and $17.74 annually if the bond is passed."

Perez also said it's important for community members to understand why the school district is proposing the $67 million bond and maintenance tax election and how it intends on using the money if the bond is passed.

"I've been asked, 'Isn't $67 million a very large amount of money for construction of district facilities?'" Perez said. "Well, the more realistic amount is $42 million because we are asking the voters to allow us to refinance $25 million of already existing debt payments for Red Sands Elementary, Frank Macias Elementary, the new middle school being built in Horizon, as well as recent additions to Mountain View High School, Clint Junior High School, Carroll T. Welch Middle School and Surratt Elementary School."

Perez said the reason the three schools are being refinanced is because they were originally financed through a lease-purchase agreement with the state.

"We have to pay off our $25 million debt whether the bond election is passed or not," Perez said. "But it is important to understand that the interest rate will be much lower if we go with a bond and maintenance tax election than with the lease-purchase agreement."

"We can continue to pay at a higher interest rate, or the voters can approve the bond election in order for the district to refinance at a lower rate and save more money for equipment, supplies and salaries," he said.

If approved, district officials plan to use the remaining $45 million for the use of constructing, maintaining, enhancing and/or renovating district instructional facilities as needed.

To refinance the $25 million in outstanding lease obligations, Perez said the interest rate is projected at 3.0 percent compared to the 5.7 percent it's currently paying.

The district's Board of Trustees voted in favor of adopting the estimated $67 million bond and maintenance tax election during its regular meeting July 25.

Clint ISD currently has a student enrollment of an estimated 8,000 — a figure that is expected to double within the next five years.

"This bond election is just one of many things our district is working on to prepare for the future and to accommodate the needs of our students and adequately prepare for the incredible projected growth," Perez said.

Some Socorro residents and officers demand Police Chief's resignation

By Arleen Beard
Special to the Courier

SOCORRO — Several members of the Town of Socorro turned out to express their strong feelings of disapproval towards the job performance of Police Chief Buryl Canuteson since his arrival three months ago. Chief Canuteson and his performance were the main focus of the regularly scheduled Socorro City Council meeting on Sept. 6.

Several community members, including Marina Gutierrez, questioned Chief Canuteson's abilities as the Chief of Police. Gutierrez told Council that Chief Canuteson refuses to listen to his fellow officers. Another Socorro citizen alleged that, during a recent drive-by shooting incident at Socorro High School, the City of Socorro Officers were unassisted by Chief Canuteson. As a result, the Chief of Police from Clint was called to assist the officers, it was alleged. According to Socorro Police Officers, Chief Canuteson was in the office when this occurred but did not make any effort to assist his officers.

Representatives from the Police Association also addressed members of Town Council to express their dissatisfaction with Chief Canuteson's performance, stating that it was their hope that Chief Canuteson would resign immediately.

Chief Canuteson stated that he had no intentions of resigning from his position.

Police Association member, Jessie Ortega, informed Council about attempts he has made to have the police officers meet with Chief Canuteson, but has had no success due to Chief Canuteson's refusal to meet with them, he said.

According to the Socorro Police Officers, there were previously 29 officers on staff and currently only 13 officers are left. They also accused Chief Canuteson of refusing to have volunteers as Police Officers and said that five previous volunteer officers have had to resort to continuing their volunteer hours as police officers for the Town of Anthony.

Mayor Amado Padilla and members of Council said they were disturbed by the concerns of EL PASO COUNTY — The El Paso County tax rate will hold even though Commissioners Court members were expected to reward themselves with a three percent cost-of-living adjustment while, at the same time, all elected officials Monday were looking towards a 5.6 percent salary increase.

That would raise remuneration of County Judge Dolores Briones to $59,572, of County Commissioner Miguel Teran to $46,285, and

Our world has changed forever

HORIZON — We were late to work this morning. We just sat there stunned in front of the television seeing the incredible scenes of destruction as the two World Trade Center Towers collapsed before our eyes, and we watched plumes of smoke rising from the Pentagon in Washington, D.C.

We watched the live, horrific scenes of an airliner crashing and bursting into flames as it plowed into the World Trade Center Tower, and saw our nation's capitol literally become an armed camp.

We are used to seeing news reports of bad things happening to a few people. As a nation we are unaccustomed to bad things happening to all of us at once, because it so seldom has.

It happened today.

As horrendous as Oklahoma City was, it pales in comparison to the devastation wrought in the middle of one of this nation's proudest cities.

Today this nation tries, as the hours wear on, to find some sense of normalcy again. The media drones on and on, breaking down the enormity of this event into the minute details they so skillfully examine.

But the inescapable truth is that we will never be the same again. Our nation has been dealt a blow unlike anything we have ever suffered before, even as heart-breaking as it was when one of our own blew away the face of the Federal Building in Oklahoma.

The devastation to America is not only the incredible human loss, but the loss of security, the loss of national belief that we are invincible — the loss of innocence.

America has been dropped free-fall into the reality of this terribly dangerous world.

We are being told, by the few political leaders who are approaching a camera this morning, that the terrorist wins when a nation alters its way of life because of fear. We are told to go calmly about our business, to pull together in healing the wounds, and to live life as we normally would.

But the comforting words are hollow today. The extent of this horrendous happening hasn't even been fully assessed yet — nor do we even know if it is all over yet, a "fluid situation" as the media so deftly puts it.

The national consciousness of America can no longer go blithely about its business. We are a hated people, a hated nation in many parts of the world, as unfounded and inexplicable as that may seem. Today's events were, like a bucket of ice water, a most unwelcome wake-up call.

We have an enemy that has made himself known up close and personal — an enemy who doesn't play by the accepted rules of political correctness, who probably has never even read the "Soldiers Guide to the Rules of War." This enemy is no longer a shadowy figure on a newscast, but a true and present danger — an enemy of considerable and ruthless resources.

America has been introduced to the cold, hard reality of war on its own soil, and America has not known war that way. Even those Americans who fought and died in the trenches of WWII were soldiers fighting on the battlefield — not dying in the streets of New York on their way to work.

The world as we have known it has changed forever.

Eye on D.C. By U.S. Rep. Henry Bonilla

The meaning and significance of our constitution

"We the People of the United States, in Order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

These famous words, written more than 200 years ago, constitute the opening paragraph of one of the most profound and influential documents in history. As we celebrate the anniversary of our Constitution on September 17, we should take a few minutes this weekend to think about the meaning and significance of that incredible document.

The U.S. Constitution is the world's oldest written constitution still in effect. Ever since its completion on September 17, 1787, it has been debated, interpreted and amended. In spite of the changes our nation has gone through during the last two centuries, our Constitution has continued to provide a stable framework for America. The writers of the Constitution believed that government should come from the people, not from kings, and that a legitimate government is one that derives its powers from the people it governs. They provided for a system of checks and balances that prevent the government from becoming too powerful. They divided the federal government into three separate branches — the executive branch, the legislative branch and the judicial branch. In addition, the Constitution provided a national structure which sought to protect the self-determination of state and local governments.

The framers of the U.S. Constitution accomplished what no other nation had achieved before that time: a national charter which defined and incorporated the principles of a government formed and run by the people. Since that time, it has been a model for other nations trying to emulate our great country.

In this day and age, it seems that some politicians in Washington are willing to jeopardize the strength of our Constitution for political gains. Our Constitution has worked well for more than 200 years; we should protect it today so we can enjoy the same level of freedom and prosperity in the United States for the next 200 years.

the rest of the court to $42,077.

In other fiscal issues, the court was to take up the matter of adding new debt in the amount of $70 million, or some portion thereof, for a new Fabens international bridge, eastside regional park, and housing for offices.

Commissioner Dan Haggerty, while observing that the County is in a very sound financial position, nevertheless objected to incurring more debt until what is owed, some $120 million, is paid off.

If property valuations go up, Judge Briones noted, tax bills also will be about $18 more on a $70,000 home. More office space may be needed but the courthouse is "spacious," it was observed.

In other business, commissioners and officials of the Southwestern International Livestock Show and Rodeo reconciled their differences over advertising money misspent last year under their contract as the court agreed to set aside $65,000 of hotel-motel tax money for next year's event.

Other non-mandated funding given the nod was $250,000 to Project Arriba in the same amount as last year.

As expected, commissioners agreed to continue funding for free and discounted preventive health care for undocumented alien immigrants residing in El Paso County. This, despite Texas Attorney General John Cornyn's July 10 ruling that they cannot do so.

The 4-1 vote, with Dan Haggerty dissenting, rubber-stamped the position already taken by Board of Managers of Thomason General Hospital.

County Attorney Jose Rodriguez argued against Cornyn's opinion and Commissioner Miguel Teran said that leaving it up to hospital employees to determine immigrant status would be "a disaster," a burden which should not be placed upon the County.

The hospital's tax rate, 18.5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, was left alone as the court approved a FY 2002 budget of $205.7 million.

Finally, September was declared Volunteer Blood Donor Month in El Paso.

Fabens ISD earns spotless report from evaluation team

EAST EL P A S O C O U N T Y

— As you may be aware, the District Effectiveness and Compliance (DEC) Team from the Texas Education Agency performed a comprehensive program review and audit for our district this month. When they exited our district, they delivered to our District Improvement Team an outstanding report on the programs and services that are implemented and provided by our district.

Our district received a perfectly positive report with no citations or violations noted within it. This is a very unusual situation, as we understand from the team members that this has not occurred but this one time in the last three years. As always we are proud of our fine staff and the effort everyone in the district has made to make such an excellent report possible.

As the first district in Region 19 to be visited by a DEC team this year, we have set a high standard for other districts in our area. We wish them all good luck as they have their own DEC visits later this school year.

Again, thank you to everyone for your hard work, determination, patience, positive attitude, and active support for this crucial evaluation. It is obvious to all that we accept the challenge to be the very best and strive for excellence at every opportunity. Our community, parents, students, staff and Board of Trustees can all be happy with the validation that this report places on our efforts to make Fabens ISD the best possible place for teaching and learning.

This year’s homecoming to showcase the evolution of San Elizario High

By Andrew Soliz
Special to the Courier

SAN ELIZARIO — Homecoming is fast approaching for the San Elizario Eagles. Student Council members, class and club sponsors, cheerleaders, athletes — everyone is getting ready for a week filled with spirited activities revolving around the theme: “Evolution...A Pathway to Perfection.”

“In the past, San Eli has been sort of a non-entity,” said sophomore StuCo member Richard Cazares. “We really had no pride or school spirit. But in the past few years we have really evolved into a force to be reckoned with.

“We have evolved through time not only as strong independent leaders, but also as students with a mission in life. That’s why we though ‘Evolution’ would be a good theme.”

The king and queen will be crowned during the half-time activities of the football game against Bowie Bears on Friday, Sept. 28.

The week kicks off Monday, Sept. 24 with a variety of traditional activities including hall decorating, a parade, pep rally and dress up days.

“The week is going to be very hectic,” said StuCo vice president Carol Reyes, “But it’s going to be a lot of fun.”

Thursday there will be a parade followed by a pep rally, beginning at 2 p.m. Class floats, marching band, cheerleaders, decorated cars and shopping carts will parade around the campus. All members of the community and visitors, as well as parents of current Eagles are invited to the parade and pep rally.

At 10 a.m. Friday morning, StuCo will host an Exes Tea for all San Eli graduates. Council members will conduct tours of the building for those exes who graduated from the old building, to show how San Eli has entered the new millennium.

“We hope a lot of exes will attend the tea,” said StuCo president Martiza Jimenez, “because I am sure they will be surprised at how the school has evolved since we moved into the new building.

Lion Battalion completes active summer, heads into busy fall

By c/CPT Joshua T. Smith
Special to the Courier

EAST EL PASO COUNTY — Clint High School Army JROTC — the “Lion Battalion” — has completed an active summer, presenting itself at many events, including football games, school board meetings, parades, and other functions.

Following summer camp, hosted at Cloudcroft, New Mexico, sent four cadets — Raymond Pierce, Tommy Garcia, Michael Garcia, and Ismael Aguayo — attended a rifle marksmanship training camp in Oxford, Mississippi.

Accompanied by 49 other cadets from schools in Texas, Kentucky, Mis-issippi, Louisiana, and Arkansas, the CHS representatives were advised and exercised in the use and care of .177 caliber precision Olympic grade air rifles by such experts as the 1992 Olympic silver medalist Bob Foth. At the end of the camp, a match was held, in which Clint’s cadets placed well — taking second, seventh, eighth and twelfth out of 54 total.

The every-day activities and operations of the JROTC unit are handled by the senior cadets, who comprise the battalion staff. Each year the staff is renewed, as the graduating officers are replaced by the next year’s senior class.

This year, the JROTC Lion Battalion staff has a bright vision for the future of the organization, working hard to set an example for all years to come.

These cadets are Battalion Commander c/LTC Raymond Pierce III; Executive Officer c/MAJ Nora Chaparro; Command Sergeant Major c/CSM Ismael Aguayo; Battalion S-1 Adjutant c/CPT Jessica Sapient; Battalion S-2 Public Relations/History c/CPT Joshua T. Smith; Battalion S-3 Operations c/CPT Tim Macias; Battalion S-4 Supply c/CPT Alex Torres; Battalion S-5 Electronic Media c/CPT Arnulfo Bravo.

Emmitt Smith may feel like a stranger in his own dressing room

By Steve Escajeda
Special to the Courier

The 2001 NFL season is now underway and though some people may be wondering which team will win the Super Bowl in January, I am wondering about something else.

I wonder if Emmitt Smith will break Walter Payton's rushing record? And if he does, how the heck will he do it?

I mean Smith has been a great back over the years and is in no way over the hill, but with the Cowboys being — well — a definite lower tier team, I can't see it happening.

At least not this year.

Just think about it, how must Emmitt feel when he goes to work everyday?

How must it feel for Smith to look around the Cowboys' locker room and see no Troy Aikman, no Michael Irvin, no Moose Johnston, no Leon Lett, no Erik Williams, no Jay Novacek, no Charles Haley, no Bill Bates, no Deion Sanders, no Tony Tolbert, no Nate Newton and no many many others?

Emmitt is the last of the Da Boys' championship team's offensive weapons and will have to rely on a decent but older offensive line to pave the way to immortality.

Smith is 1,560 yards away from Payton's mark and after rushing for an impressive 1,200 yards last year, Smith could get close this year but does he have enough in him for two more successful seasons?

The older Emmitt Smith may not be the biggest NFL running back and he may not be the fastest running back but no runner in the league has a bigger heart.

And that's an intangible that no one can measure or underestimate.

Will he break Payton's record? I don't think so, but he still has to be considered arguably the best all-around (running, catching, blocking and winning) running back of all time.

And because of that, I still wouldn't put the record past him.

Top Dogs

It was just a few weeks ago that UTEP Miners coaches and fans were disappointed at the fact that they were not going to play the WAC's pre-season No. 1 pick, the Fresno State Bulldogs, this season because of a scheduling quirk.

But after watching Fresno State beat powerhouses Colorado, Oregon State and Wisconsin over the first three weeks of the season, the Miners are probably breathing a collective sigh of relief.

The Miners have struggled mightily at quarterback and are not nearly the same team they were last year. Not playing Fresno State this season can only help the Miners' chances of at least tying for another WAC title but even that may be a stretch.

After their three improbable upsets, the Bulldogs' (now ranked No. 11 by the Associated Press) schedule gets considerably easier the rest of the way and if they run the table the WAC should have a representative in the BCS bowl system at the end of the season.

That can only help the Miners and the rest of the league.

The Fresno State football team is already being called the feel-good story of the early collegiate season. And with probably the best quarterback in the nation, David Carr, the Bulldogs should be feeling good all the way through January 2002.

Cal time

Imagine being so good a player during your career that you can actually influence the starting time of a game. Cal Ripken Jr. doesn't have to imagine it, he's living it.

There's no doubt that Ripken has given more than enough of his time to the game of baseball. Now baseball is giving some of its time to Cal.

Seems his last home game on Sept. 23, Major League Baseball is changing the starting time of the game against the Yankees from 1:30 in the afternoon to 7:05 p.m. so that it could be shown nationally on ESPN2.

Now that's power, baseball fans.

What makes the day even better is that Tony Gwynn's final home game in San Diego will also be televised just before the Baltimore-Yankees game.

Which is a fitting tribute for two men that played the game of baseball and the game of life the way I hope my son grows up to.

Clint student honored at UTEP leadership academy

EL PASO COUNTY — Indaxali Estrada, a junior at Clint High School, was selected to attend the 2001 Summer Migrant Leadership Academy at the University of Texas at El Paso. Students who attended the Academy lived on campus for seven days. They attended workshops that build self-esteem, trust, teamwork and public speaking skills. Workshops such as Ropes class, Seven Habits of Highly Effective Teens, Career Exploration, Computer Training (UT Austin - Marketing Yourself), Arts and others were mandatory for all students to attend. Sally was selected based on her year round academic success, her positive attitude, interest, and her future after graduation plans. She returned to her campus with the recognition of Best All Around. Next summer she will qualify to return to the Academy as a student worker.

include new science and classroom wings, two new elementary schools that would be constructed where growth dictates, a new library for Surratt and upgrade of the Mountain View High School library.

A Site-Based Decision-Making Committee consisting of parents, school staff, business representatives and community members, decided on much of the contents in the bond package. In addition, consultants were used for project sketches and cost estimates, as well as for a community-wide demographic study.

Perez said early voting is scheduled for Sept. 19-Oct. 2 at Clint Junior High School, Desert Hills Elementary School and Montana Vista Elementary School. Voters can also take to the polls from 5 to 9 p.m. Sept. 27 at all Clint ISD campus sites.

"We are experiencing a lot of growth in our district, and the board is being proactive in trying to prepare us to meet the needs of our district and its students.

"Maybe some of the items under consideration for the bond package will not meet our immediate needs," Estrada said. "But they will definitely push us forward for the next five to 10 years."

Answer Page 7

There she is...again

By Don Flood

“Revamped Miss America telecast becomes reality TV,” the headline blared.

Yeah, right.

If they really wanted reality TV, they’d announce which contestants have had plastic surgery.

Try to contain your excitement, but here are two of the wild and crazy ideas that are taking the Miss America Pageant into the 21st Century:

- The 8th Judge — The 41 non-finalists will be asked to vote on who they think should be Miss America based upon something called — excuse me while I yawn — Peer Respect and Leadership.

No one, the release was careful to say, will be “voted off the island.”

Z-Z-Z-z-z-z ... Ooops, sorry — must have dozed off.

Why not have contestants voted off?

The pageant has always claimed to value brains as much as beauty. Let them use their smarts to eliminate the competition.

True story: I heard a former Miss America say that they stopped presenting the Miss Congeniality award because all the girls voted for themselves!

Imagine that! “Hmmm, let’s see, who is the nicest, warmest, most absolutely wonderful person here? My parents taught me always to be honest, so I’ll have to vote for myself!”

- Knowledge Quiz — For the first time, the five finalists will compete in a quiz show.

Look, if we wanted a game show we’d watch “Jeopardy!”

Instead of aping “Who Wants to be a Millionaire,” Miss America should take a page from “Fear Factor” and have the five finalists do something more meaningful than just regurgitate facts — they could, for example, see which of the five finalists could eat the most crickets.

Here are ways to give the show more of an edge:

- Move the pageant from Atlantic City to Florida, America’s No. 1 Shark Playground (new tourism slogan: “Where Sharks and Humans Come Together!”).

Losing contestants would be required to spend 15 minutes splashing in the surf, as the Florida state song — the theme from “Jaws” — played in the background.

Just to show you how cold-blooded those sharks are, here’s a typical joke making the rounds at underwater comedy clubs off Florida:

First shark: What do you call a human who likes to swim alone?

Second shark: Dinner!

(Hey, no one ever claimed that sharks were funny.)

- In Hollywood there is an aerobics class where participants gradually take off their clothes while they dance — absolutely true story!

And it’s not as nutty as it sounds. If you spent big bucks to get your derriere fixed, you might want to show it off too.

(Writing tip: Derriere is a polite-sounding French word for rear end. Using it shows you have too much class to use a coarse word such as “butt,” which should always be avoided.)

Now I am not for one New-York second recommending that the Miss America Pageant stoop that low to hype their big production numbers, but if they do go ahead with it, I want to get my share of the credit.

Or at least be a judge.
