Energy costs

With COVID-19 keeping people indoors more than usual and driving up residential electric bills, the personal-finance website WalletHub has released its report on 2020's Most & Least Energy-Expensive States, as well as accompanying videos. For a better understanding of Americans' energy costs relative to their location and consumption habits, WalletHub compared the average monthly energy bills in each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia using a special formula that accounts for the following residential energy types: electricity, natural gas, motor fuel and home heating oil. Texas was rated 33rd in the report. Energy consumption and costs in Texas (1-Most Expensive; 25-Avg.):

- Avg. Monthly Energy Bill: $265;
- 36th – Price of Electricity;
- 7th – Electricity Consumption per Consumer;
- 22nd – Price of Natural Gas;
- 40th – Natural-Gas Consumption per Consumer;
- 48th – Price of Motor Fuel; and
- 14th – Motor-Fuel Consumption per Driver.

Stressful cities

With nearly four in 10 Americans experiencing significant stress due to COVID-19, the personal-finance website WalletHub has released its report on 2020's Most & Least Stressed Cities in America, as well as accompanying videos. In order to determine where Americans cope best with their stress, WalletHub compared more than 180 cities across 42 key metrics. The data set ranges from how vulnerable the state is to COVID-19 to average weekly work hours to divorce and suicide rates. El Paso was rated 55th in the report (1-best; 180-worst). Other stats:

- Lincoln, NE has the lowest unemployment rate, 5.10 percent, which is 7.7 times lower than in Detroit, MI, the city with the highest at 39.20 percent.
- Fremont, CA has the lowest divorce rate, 9.35 percent, which is 4.4 times lower than in Cleveland, OH, the

Gonzalez posts perfect attendance, GPA

By Alfredo Vasquez
Special to the Courier

EL PASO COUNTY – Day-in and day-out, Brian Gonzalez would be in his classroom every school day. Beginning in kindergarten through his senior year in high school, he was at his desk trying to do his best.

“Since grade school, I set a goal to be Valedictorian of my graduating class and was determined to go to school every day to accomplish that goal,” Gonzalez said recently.

Gonzalez will have realized his goal when Montwood High School, in the Socorro Independent School District (SISD), holds its 2020 graduation ceremony on Friday, July 24th.

The Montwood HS senior was recently named the top graduate for this year's graduating class, and he did it with perfect attendance throughout his twelve years of schooling, as confirmed by SISD officials.

“Brian accomplished a perfect attendance while attending local SISD schools since kindergarten and maintained all ‘A’s’ in school as well. We are extremely proud. Not very many students can achieve these two accomplishments,” said proud father Charlie Gonzalez. Brian's mother is Virginia Galvan.

Brian, 18, attended Lujan-Chavez Elementary School and went to Sun Ridge Middle School, before going to Montwood HS, where he was enrolled in the Rams Early College (REC) high school program.

Through the early college program, Brian earned an Associate of Arts degree from El Paso Community College (EPCC) last year with a perfect 4.0 grade point average. Also, he was awarded the Outstanding REC student award as a member of the first REC class to graduate from Montwood HS. Now, his plans are to earn a Bachelor of Science degree in Electrical Engineering.

At Montwood HS, Brian was a member of the National Honor Society (NHS) and the Principal's Advisory Committee. Through NHS, he assisted in a variety of community projects, such as the Pet Guardian Angel initiative, Sun Ridge at Cambria Nursing Home program, and El Pasoans Fighting Hunger service. He also participated in school events like Montwood HS registration and Rams Early College inter-session bridge camps.

“I am grateful for having been selected to the Rams Early College (REC) program. REC has given me the opportunities and the advantage to get a head start on my college career,” Brian said. “I graduated from EPCC with a GPA of 4.0 during my junior year and through the Fast Track Program was given the opportunity to attend UTEP during my senior year. Currently, I have a 4.0 on the college courses I have taken at UTEP and will continue with my electrical engineering degree courses of study in the fall,” he stated.

For his scholastic effort, Brian has received the Presidential Scholarship from the University of Texas in El Paso (UTEP) and has other scholarship applications pending, the younger Gonzalez stated.

“My motivation to excel in school was to go day-in and day-out knowing that I made every attempt to work hard and stay focused to reach my goals,” Brian related. “I wanted to inspire others, like my younger sister, Natalie for instance.

ACADEMIC PERFECTION – Brian Gonzalez was recently named Montwood High School Valedictorian for the upcoming graduation ceremony. He earned top grades and perfect attendance since kindergarten.

One has to strive for greatness and be able to reach his or her academic goals in order to be successful in college and chosen career,” he stated.

“The pandemic has definitely interrupted my senior year in high school. I missed out on some senior events, like the Prom, Emerald Awards Ceremony, Senior Day, and other activities, but I am keeping my head up and looking forward to my high school graduation ceremony, July 24,” Brian asserted.

NEOWISE: The next great comet

By Ryan Montes
Special to the Courier

What comes to mind when you hear the phrase great comet? Is it iconic Halley's Comet that passes by us every 76 years? What about Comet Hale-Bopp, the most recent type of these comets we have seen as far back in 1997? If you think of those comets or any other, you're not wrong at all. They're known as great comets for several reasons – one of them being their spectacular appearance. Let's look at how these comets, or any comet, are formed.

Comets are primarily a large mass of dust, rock and ice that we would never see unless they orbit close to the sun. The

Over the Independence Day weekend, two professional sports teams were finally forced to deal with names that offend people who were here way before them. Meanwhile, President Donald Trump stayed mute on the sidelines.

Yes, even Daniel Snyder, the owner of the Washington NFL team whose racist name he said he'd "NEVER" change, is now being forced to ponder a CHANGE. Why? It's certainly not out of principle; Snyder has no principles, nor much ability to field a winning team. But he's being coerced to conduct a "thorough review" of the name—a review that was forced on him by targeting the only thing he cares about... his wallet. It seems that his corporate sponsors, who are themselves only now discovering that there is racism in the United States of America, have threatened to withhold the millions of dollars that have sustained these leagues all along.

It's not just a football team that has suddenly developed a conscience, but a baseball franchise too. The Cleveland Indians, in this new era of examining all things bigoted, can no longer ignore the complaints of Native Americans and has decided to "determine the best path forward with regard to our team name." In other words, we can chalk up another win to the almighty dollar.

Sports and real life

As for Donald Trump, he forged ahead with a rally in South Dakota, oblivious to the Native Americans who consider the Mount Rushmore statues an intrusion on their sacred land. He was hellbent on having one of his sacred photo ops. This one involved the four presidents carved out of the Black Hills, with Trump clearly suggesting he ought to be the fifth.

He also seemed heedless of the pandemic that is threatening death and illness to his fellow Americans, not the least of whom were those packed in the Mt. Rushmore amphitheater. Most of them were not wearing masks, as his followers are wont to do. He treated them to a really harsh view of his enemies circling around him, as in those outraged by American prejudice looking to topple memorials to the racists:

"Angry mobs are trying to tear down statues of our founders, deface our most sacred memorials and unleash a wave of violent crime in our cities."

The darkness was lit up with flyovers and fireworks. And then it was back to the Swamp, where POTUS once again staged another fireworks display. He had overridden objections of the mayor and public health experts, who argued that big crowds would certainly lead to more COVID cases, which are already spiraling out of control.

It's why sports teams, for the safety of their fans, are planning to play their games for cameras only, with no one allowed to watch in person. However, many of the athletes are questioning whether they should endanger themselves and their families by participating. Is the glory worth the hazard?

At least the team owners have been swept up in the new consciousness that followed the death of George Floyd, which has spread to include all people who are oppressed in the United States.

Spread to everyone but Donald Trump and his fervid supporters, who are motivated by grievance. Trump is basing his campaign for re-election on feeding their resentments as the world passes them by. If he can whip up their frenzy, it might work.

Triumph at Mount Rushmore

If nothing else, President Donald Trump’s July Fourth speech at Mount Rushmore clarified the battle lines of our culture war.

The New York Times called the speech “dark and divisive,” while an Associated Press headline declared, “Trump pushes racial division.” A Washington Post story said the speech “crystallized” the president’s “unyielding push to preserve Confederate symbols and the legacy of white domination.”

Democratic Sen. Tammy Duckworth insisted that Trump “spent all his time talking about dead traitors.”

To be clear – and despite all of this – the media and the left didn’t freak out about a speech extolling the valor of Robert E. Lee or the statesmanship of Jefferson Davis. They didn’t scorn a speech pining for Antebellum America or expressing ambiguity about the Civil War. They didn’t pan a speech that slighted the quest for justice and civil rights throughout American history.

As a matter of fact, Trump didn’t mention any Confederates at all. He hailed Abraham Lincoln at length and called the Civil War “the struggle that saved our union and extinguished the evil

Life, liberty and happiness depend on law, order and history

Recent events are unsettling. They demonstrate how disconnected from history some have become. They demonstrate why law enforcement is important, even as we aim for higher accountability. They represent a rare educational moment, teaching that “life, liberty and pursuit of happiness” depend on defending law, order, and history.

In the past three weeks, what began as peaceful marches for racial equality were overtaken by organized criminality and violent ideological groups and actions. Criminals destroyed urban businesses and private property. Ideological radicals – united by anarchist behavior, communist sympathies, and anti-American sentiments – defaced, toppled, desecrated, and destroyed public property.

Criminal and radical leftist groups have emerged in dozens of cities, taking over extended city blocks, toppling historic statues across the South, but also statues of Francis Scott Key, President Ulysses S. Grant, Union leaders and American Founders.

These ideological radicals – many supported by left-leaning city councils, mayors, governors, and members of Congress – have widened their target list. Like Jacobins of the French Revolution, they deface and destroy statutes of statesmen and thinkers.

They aim to delegitimize the republic’s founding principles and documents – not least our Bill of Rights and Constitution – by discrediting, delegitimizing, and destroying reputations and representations of those who founded the nation, from Thomas Jefferson to George Washington.

Most Americans – arguably 99 percent – are not with this absurd, anti-democratic, anti-American violence. They do not condone lawless destruction of public or private property, the desecration

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

- On July 13, 1985, at Wembley Stadium in London, Prince Charles and Princess Diana officially open Live Aid, a worldwide rock concert organized to raise money for the relief of famine-stricken Africans. The 16-hour “superconcert” was globally linked by satellite to more than a billion viewers in 110 nations.
- On July 14, 1798, Congress passes the Sedition Act. The act permitted the prosecution of individuals who voiced or printed what the government deemed to be malicious remarks about the president or the U.S. government.
- On July 15, 2006, San Francisco-based podcasting company Odeo officially releases Twtr – later changed to Twitter – its short messaging service (SMS) to the public. The free application allowed users to share status updates by sending one text message to a single number (“40404”). During development, one engineer suggested calling it FriendStalker.
- On July 16, 1995, Amazon officially opens for business as an online bookseller, eventually selling everything from groceries to furniture. Founder Jeff Bozos initially dubbed the business Cadabra (as in abracadabra), but after someone misheard the name as “cadaver,” he switched to Amazon.
- On July 17, 1920, Nils Bohlin, the Swedish engineer and inventor responsible for the three-point lap and shoulder seatbelt, is born. Before 1959, only two-point lap belts were available in automobiles.
- On July 18, 1969, after leaving a party on Chappaquiddick Island, Sen. Edward “Ted” Kennedy of Massachusetts drives an Oldsmobile off a bridge into a tide-swept pond. Kennedy escaped the submerged car, but his passenger, 28-year-old Mary Jo Kopechne, did not. The senator did not report the fatal car accident for 10 hours.
- On July 19, 1879, Doc Holliday commits his first murder, killing a man for shooting up his saloon. Despite his reputation as a deadly gunslinger, Doc Holliday engaged in just eight shootouts during his life, and killed only two men.

of history. They disavow, resist, and will rebuff violence.

That said, the danger posed by lawlessness like that of the 1960s is real. In that time, America saw a young President, Attorney General, and Civil Rights Leader assassinated. We suffered widespread bombings, were perpetrated by groups like the Weather Underground and communist-linked liberation movements. Today, urban violence is spreading to the suburbs, fanned by foreign adversaries, like China. So, we must stay focused on – and proud of – American history.

We must recognize history’s complexity – and significance. That is why the most egregious act was defacing a North Carolina cemetery commemorating 5,170 American WWII veterans – with a crude Communist hammer and sickle.

No two ideas are more opposed – than giving one’s life to preserve freedom and advancing communist suppression of freedom. If there is a historical prism through which to see what is happening today, that horrific act is the prism. It teaches lessons.

First, all Americans must distinguish lawless from lawful of slavery.” He said we must defend “the ideas that were the foundation of the righteous movement for civil rights.”

It’d be difficult to get a more textbook expression of the American civic religion than the speech at Rushmore. It’d be difficult to get a more wide-ranging appreciation of the warriors, inventors, adventurers, reformers, entertainers and athletes that have made the country what it is. It’d be difficult to get a more affirming account of the greatness of America and its meaning to the world. And, yet, the speech was tested and found wanting. Trump’s attacks on what he called “a new far-left fascism” and a cultural revolution “designed to overthrow the American Revolution” were indeed hard-edged, but who can doubt the basic truth of the claims? There’s a fear afoot in the land, as a merciless authoritarian spirit informs a spate of firings and cancellations. The day before Trump’s speech, a Boeing executive resigned over something he had written... in 1987. The setting for Trump’s speech is itself now deemed problematic. A CNN report previewing the event said Trump “will be at Mount Rushmore, where he’ll be standing in front of a monument of two slave owners and on land wrestled away from Native Americans.” There’s no doubt that Trump is a deeply flawed messenger. But it wasn’t just Trump the messenger who was attacked in the aftermath of the Mount Rushmore speech; it was the message.

Patriotic sentiments of the sort that have adorned American oratory for centuries were deemed hateful and divisive. A celebration of the Founders that once would have been the stuff of schoolbooks and primers was considered controversial. A defense of the nation’s ideals was waved away. No, nothing to see here – only hate and division. Surely, if some other Republican president had given the Mount Rushmore speech the pushback wouldn’t have been as intense. But this isn’t just about Trump. It goes much deeper. Critics of the speech objected to what they said was its wildly exaggerated account of the stakes in the culture war – and at the same time, vindicated that account by equating patriotism with white supremacy.

students going to college in the region by partnering with the El Paso Community Foundation, school districts and other partners on various initiatives. “The purpose of the EPCC school store is to prepare students with the supplies they need and motivate children for the coming academic year,” Patricia Islas, Service Learning Program Coordinator said. “We also want to create a connection that will encourage students to go to college and that EPCC would be a great place to start in the future to further their education.”

For the past five years, the EPCC stores have provided school supplies to schools as well as provided campus tours and information to students about going to college. This program has expanded significantly due to the generosity of a donation from the El Paso Community Foundation. As a result, more schools and volunteers participate each year and more kids are able to benefit from the program.

EPCC School Store Coordinator, Shanán Valles and Service Learning Program students are being assisted in this effort with the support of and volunteers from EPCC’s Career and Transfer Services, New Student Orientation, Dr. William Serrata and President’s Office staff and others. EPCC’s efforts were enhanced by sponsorship and volunteer assistance from the community, including the El Paso Community Foundation, Peter Piper Pizza, HHC, 1-36 IN BN (Spartans), 1stABCT 1st Armored Division, Sgt. Michael White and school district personnel.

The Service Learning Program at EPCC encourages civic responsibility among students through community service. The program supports community agencies through collaboration that provides opportunities for students while strengthening our region. Through Service Learning, students can apply newly acquired academic skills and knowledge to address real-life needs in their own communities and reflect on the meaning of this service

Anthony Independent School District

2020-2021 Meal Policy

The Anthony Independent School District announced today it will continue its policy to operate the Community Eligibility Program (CEP) under the National School Lunch Program and School Breakfast Program for the Anthony Elementary, Anthony Middle School and Anthony High School 2020-2021 school year. Schools qualifying to operate CEP serve breakfast and lunch to all children at no charge and eliminate the collection of meal applications for free, reduced-price, and paid student meals. This new approach reduces burdens for both families and school administrators and helps ensure that students receive nutritious meals.

The start of the sports calendar is giving me a headache

By Steve Escajeda
Special to the Courier

The coronavirus experts can’t agree whether to wear masks or not or whether it’s safe to open businesses and schools or not.

There have been many things the professionals have gotten wrong about the virus; which has led to a lot of uncertainty and fear.

It’s difficult to plan for the near future when you don’t know what dangers are ahead of you.

And that’s where we find the world of sports right now.

Whether we’ve delayed the start of play (Major League Baseball), or are planning the re-start of play (NBA), or hoping to start play on time (NFL and college sports), it seems like everyone is running in different directions.

We’ve already learned the Chihuahuas will take the year off. The El Paso Locomotive soccer team finally started their postponed season last weekend with a victory in front of an empty Southwest University Park.

If all goes well, MLB will start its abbreviated 60-game season in a week (July 23).

The NBA is going to restart its season on July 30. But the league only invited 22 of the 30 teams to come back and play eight games before starting the playoffs.

The biggest change is that every single game will be played in Orlando, Florida, at the Disney World’s ESPN Wide World of Sports Complex, with no fans in the stands.

The teams are going to have the same records they had when the season was suspended back in March. It’s a strange way to finish the season, but that’s what the brains behind the league came up with.

The college football season is all over the place depending on what conference you’re talking about.

The Ivy league announced that it will not hold any sports during the fall semester, which of course includes football.

So don’t forget that this doesn’t only affect the Ivy league, but every single league their former opponents play for.

The Big Ten and the Pac-12 made the decision last week that they will only play conference games this year.

So all of their non-conference opponents have holes in their schedules to fill.

Usually, when one conference makes a decision like this, all the others fall into place and do the same thing.

UTEP has a couple of big games against Texas Tech and Texas this season. Are those games now in jeopardy? You better believe they are.

The only league that appears to be on schedule for starting on time is the NFL. But that could change at any time.

Heck, there’s even confusion surrounding the start of high school football here in El Paso.

High Schools are opening at different times but the city and county health authorities ordered schools not to open before Sept. 8.

The prep football season was scheduled to start on Aug. 27. The Texas University Interscholastic League announced that state football can start playing on time even if their school is operating online.

So what is El Paso going to do? Are the leaders going to comply with the rest of the state?

The early part of the high school season is filled with locals hosting and traveling to play out-of-town teams. Does this mean El Paso is going to cancel all those games?

NEOWISE

first part of a comet becoming visible is the coma. The coma is formed when a comet orbits close to the sun and sublimates – a process turning solids directly to vapor. They’re composed primarily of ice vapor and comet dust. After the coma comes the magnificently long tails. The first tail, the dust tail, can be anywhere between 600,000- to one million-miles long. They are formed as radiation pressure from the sun begins to push dust from the coma. Then the second tail – a plasma tail – forms when some of the comet’s gases are converted into ions by ultraviolet photons from the sun. These tails can be 100,000,000 miles long and always point away from the sun.

So far in 2020 there have been two comets that were supposed to become absolute spectacles to the naked eye but ended up falling short and breaking apart. Those comets were ATLAS and SWAN. The third time is proving to be the charm. We all have a chance to see this great comet throughout the end of July. The comet is known as C/2020 F3 (NEOWISE), or simply Comet NEOWISE. It passed the hardest test – passing the sun’s perihelion, the closest point to the sun. These comets are also known as sungrazers. That was big because it told astronomers and observers that NEOWISE had enough strength and elements to withstand the sun’s heat and not evaporate or fizzle out. It has led to some great viewing.

NASA’s Near Earth Object Wide-field Infrared Survey Explorer discovered NEOWISE on March 27 this year. This is how the comet got its name. Depending on where you are you may need binoculars to view it. If you’re fortunate to live in an area where the skies turn pitch black at night with very minimal to no light pollution, you might be able to see it with the naked eye. The comet is expected to reach a magnitude of 3 or even as bright as a 2, which are magnitudes that the majority of stars that we see in the sky are.

This week it will be visible in the evening around an hour and a half after sunset. NEOWISE comes closest to earth on July 22, but come August NEOWISE says goodbye to us for the next 6,800 years.

If you’re interested in looking for NEOWISE, here’s a website that can help. The website that is used to help find comets is www.theskylive.com. They give you the option to enter the city you live in and it’ll show you exactly where the comet is in the sky at your requested location. This also includes how many degrees above the horizon NEOWISE is, followed by hourly forecasts of where it’ll be.

There’s also a computer program that can help. The program is called Stellarium and it’s basically a planetarium software and live view of the sky for your computer. The sky on your screen simultaneously moves with the earth as either day or night progresses. You can download it for free on www.stellarium.org and it is available for both Windows and Mac computers.

behavior. Non-violent marches, signs and demonstrations are protected. They help reshape laws. Violence – against people, property, and history – is never protected. It is anti-democratic, anti-republican, anti-peace, and anti-American, no matter the justification. Violence against people, property and history must be stopped, and then swiftly and surely punished. Second, there is no place on American soil for a hammer and sickle, sign of international communism, both Soviet and Maoist. To be clear, the symbol represents subjugation – totalitarian control of society, ending individual liberties secured by our Bill of Rights. Third, juxtaposing a hammer and sickle – representing global communism – with a memorial in an American veterans’ cemetery with 5,170 WWII veterans is the height of sick irony, an abomination in current and historical terms. Those veterans rose – with 16 million Americans – to save the world from totalitarianism. More than 400,000 Americans died saving the world – literally – from a descent into incalculable evil, of the kind matched only by Soviet and Chinese horrors. In total, scholars attribute

Allergy shots at home present too much risk

DEAR DR. ROACH: After giving myself allergy shots at home for years, my allergy doctor’s group has decided that it’s too dangerous for patients to do this anymore. The allergy practice will no longer send a vial unless you can prove the shot will be given in a medical facility. Even if you are a nurse or doctor yourself, you still must prove that the shot will be given in a medical facility! Of course, there is a charge per shot if you drive across town to have the allergy practice’s nurse give it. Not long after getting this notice, I read an article about a local child who has improved an insulin injection device. After the alteration, several more doses could be extracted. The article also mentioned children being able to give themselves insulin shots at school! This is such an obvious money grab. How can it be safe for children to give themselves insulin at school but too dangerous for adults to give themselves shots at home? Do you know any reason for this change of policy for giving shots other than docs who can’t get more patients, so they bleed the ones they have dry? – P.S.

Insulin therapy is very different from allergy shots. Insulin is routinely given at home, work and school, and is very safe. The difference with an allergy shot is that you are getting a substance you are known to be allergic to. Comparatively, there is a significant risk of an allergic reaction. Only 3% to 5% of people getting allergy immunotherapy will have a systemic reaction, and only 1 out of 5,000 shots or so will require epinephrine. That might not sound like a high risk, but for a busy allergy clinic, that means about one person per month. The epinephrine is used to both treat and prevent life-threatening reactions. The guidelines from allergy experts clearly state that injections must be given under qualified medical supervision. Your doctor’s group was not following the standard of care before.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual questions, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu. (c) 2020 North America Synd., Inc. All Rights Reserved.

to international communism US soil would vandalize public property, target a cemetery and memorial dedicated to heroes of WWII, then place a hammer and sickle on that memorial– is objectively horrific. That act tells us – in a poignant and painful way – why understanding and honoring rule of law, American heroism, and history is vital. If we lose sight of who we are, why we are proud of who we are, why history matters to each of us, and why rule of law must always be honored to keep liberty alive – we lose it all. Socialism is another word for progressive policies striving for communist rule, which should always be anathema to American ideals and unwelcome on American soil. Here we are – in another educational moment. We are invited to understand what freedom means – and what it does not mean. We are reminded what so many died to protect, and what we are obligated to preserve. And we are compelled to see that “life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness” depend on defending law, order, and history. Perhaps that is the silver lining on a dark cloud bank. Let us hope so.

Facts surrounding Soviet and Chinese Communism – often buried with victims – are stark and need remembering. Scholar R.J. Rummel, in “Death by Government,” found that 110 million lives were silenced by Communist leaders between 1900 and 1987. Stephane Courtois, in her “Black Book of Communism,” puts that at 85-100 million. Others conducting analyses of both Soviet (extinct) and Chinese Communism (operational), including Benjamin Valentino, Steven Rosefield (“Red Holocaust”), Matthew White, “Victims of Communism Memorial Foundation,” and Stephen Kotkin in 2017, place numbers killed by Communist leaders in a similar range. So, the idea that anyone on

by Freddy Groves

There is no piece of music that elicits as much emotion as the 24 notes of “Taps,” the bugle call played at military funerals and ceremonies.

In 2000, Congress passed legislation saying that the funerals of veterans should have two members of the military present, one to fold the flag and one to play “Taps.” The problem has been that in too many places there aren’t enough buglers. Funeral directors turned to “Taps” played on CD in a mechanical device that’s inserted into a bugle. That’s not quite the same thing.

Bugles Across America was started in 2000 by Tom Day as a means of gathering buglers who would attend the funerals of veterans and play real “Taps.” Since he started, Day has signed up 4,000 buglers.

Sounds like a lot, but it’s not, considering the number of veterans who pass away each day. Even during this lockdown the BAA is receiving 20-30 requests for buglers every day. You can help. All you have to do is play “Taps.”

The steps: Check the website at buglesacrossamerica.org. If you already play, brush up. You’ll need to audition, in person, with your state’s director or another designated person from the organization. You can be male or female. You can play a bugle with none, one, two or three valves; a trumpet; a cornet or a flugelhorn. The instrument doesn’t matter, but your playing does. You must be very, very good with at least high school-level music playing experience.

For more information, email info@buglesacrossamerica.org or click the Contact Us link on the website. If you need a bugler, click Request A Bugle.

To get a feel for the BAA, go to the website and read the Bugler’s Post blogs. You’ll learn, among other things, that Tom Day is out there each evening at 7 p.m. to sound “Taps” in honor of all our fallen brothers and sisters.

• “Remember this old trick when camping: Use salt to keep ice cold and slow the melt. In fact, I salt the ice in the cooler whenever we use it, camping or not!” – G.L. in South Carolina

• Challenge your school-age kids or grandkids to a “word scavenger hunt” in the daily newspaper. You can have them search for words relating to a particular subject, or have a contest to see who can find the most unusual or complex words. It gets them reading and looking! Preschool-age kids can use a magazine to do a scavenger hunt for certain items, like colors, animals, kitchen items, etc.

• Mark a reusable water bottle with time measurements so you’ll know if you are drinking enough during the day.

The idea of Go Figure is to arrive at the figures given at the bottom and right-hand columns of the diagram by following the arithmetic signs in the order they are given (that is, from left to right and top to bottom). Use only the numbers below the diagram to complete its blank squares and use each of the nine numbers only once.

Unscramble these twelve letter strings to form each into an ordinary word (ex. HAGNEC becomes CHANGE). Prepare to use only ONE word from any marked (♥) letter string as each unscrambles into more than one word (ex. ♥RATHE becomes HATER or EARTH or HEART). Fit each string’s word either across or down to knot all twelve strings together.
